Roosevelt Confers With Key Leaders

Congressional Bigwigs Get Full Accounting From President About His Voyage

To Study Strike

F. D. R. Plans Thorough Study of Shipyard Walkout

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt called to the White House today key men in Congress who have dealt with foreign affairs and aides said he had arranged to give them a full accounting of the international situation.

Those who assembled in the Chief Executive's study were Vice President Wallace, Senate Majority Leader Barkley, Acting Speaker Woodrum (D-Va.), Chairman Connally (D-Tex.), of the Senate foreign relations committee, Chairman Bloom (D-N. Y.), of the House foreign affairs committee, and Senator George (D-Ga.), until recently chairman of the foreign relations committee.

Stephen Early, press secretary, told reporters: "I think it's mostly foreign affairs. I think the President will give them an accounting and they, in turn, will give him one of the legislative situation as it developed in the last two weeks while he was away."

May Consider Lease-Lend
It was expected, however, that the conference—the only engagement listed for the Chief Executive on the first full day since his return to the capital—also would consider the possibility of a new lease-lend appropriation. Mr. Roosevelt was to lunch with Harry Hopkins, lease-lend supervisor who lives at the White House and has just returned from London and Moscow, and from participation in American-British staff talks at sea.

Mr. Roosevelt asked that the afternoon be left free for him to handle an accumulation of "paper work" of a nature which did not require action while he was absent from Washington.

Early said the President planned to devote some time to looking into the dispute which has tied up work on $493,000,000 in naval and merchant ships at the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock plant at Kearny, N. J. Some executive action to halt the dispute has been predicted by some officials.

Mr. Roosevelt intimated Saturday when he landed from his ocean trip that more money would be sought soon to supplement the original $7,000,000,000 lease-lend fund voted by Congress last March. Moreover, Lord Beaverbrook, Britain's minister of supply who is now in Washington, is stressing Britain's need for still greater help—for "more, more of everything."

Talks With Hull
Upon his return to the White House yesterday after an absence of a fortnight, the President devoted two hours and a half to a review of the international situation with Secretary Hull.

Affairs in the Far East and the closer alignment of Vichy, France, with Nazi Germany were understood to be two of the subjects discussed, but Hull described the conference merely as "a general interchange of information in which we brought each other up to date on the international situation."

Week-end developments tended particularly to keep the subject of Japan to the fore. Japan refused to permit the S. S. President Coolidge to call at a Japanese port to pick up 100 American nationals who wish to return home. There were Japanese complaints that the Anglo-American-Soviet front against Germany betokened "encirclement" of Japan. And the Tokyo press reported pressure on Thailand from anti-Axis nations, with the editorial comment that "in the future we cannot treat such pressure lightly."

Although Japan's action in the President Coolidge case was considered a comparatively minor matter, it was known that the state department was studying means for the removal of citizens who desire to leave Japan.

German Cautions U. S. on 'Policing' World

Berlin, Aug. 18 (AP)—A German spokesman asserted today that the United States should reflect "before taking on the job of policeman of the world."

Commenting on possible consequences of the Churchill-Roosevelt meeting, he said "the United States has a certain experience in being policeman over gangsters," but he charged that Washington daily shows a lack of understanding of the European situation.

"Decisions respecting the new order are not made in New York or Washington," he said, "but rather, by the vigorous and healthy peoples of the new European community. Their decision to order their own lives will not be influenced by crazy ideas from overseas."

Britain and Russia Plan to Checkmate Germans in Iran

Reports of Infiltrations Are Increasing; Nation Called Nazi Road to East India

London, Aug. 18 (AP)—Indications grew today that Britain and Soviet Russia were planning a decisive step shortly in Iran (Persia) where reports of German infiltration have brought a second protest from London and Moscow.

The Daily Mail said "we cannot afford to go slow here" and called the country "on Germany's road to India." It asserted Britain had been caught napping when a revolt in Iraq threatened the entire Middle East position. Protracted fighting, which the British charged was instigated by the Germans in Iraq, finally ended with the withdrawal of German elements and re-installation of British control.

Informed sources estimated about 3000 German tourists and technicians many of them at key communications points were now in Iran which has borders on Russia and India.

The Times warned Iran to heed the British and Russian notes against alleged Nazi intrigues which might compromise the country as Germany did in the World War.

"Germans and their supporters were able to drive colonies of British from most of central and southern Persia in 1915 but in cooperation with a British-organized Persian force and with the aid of Russian troops the Persian government regained control."

(A broadcast by Tass quoted Ankara reports as saying that Germany was demanding air bases and aviation fuel in Iran and planning overthrow of the government. It said German agents had filtered into the Iranian army and more were coming via Istanbul to headquarters at Tabriz.)

Officials would not discuss the possibility of a military move on Iran but it was recalled that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons August 12.

Puppet Ruler Loses Three Bodyguards in Act Said to Be Warning Tokyo Will Stand No Foolishness

Shanghai, Aug. 18 (AP)—Usually reliable sources reported today that three members of Wang Ching-Wei's personal bodyguard were shot to death and a fourth was wounded in an attack Saturday night in the Nanking home of the leader of the Japanese-sponsored Chinese regime.

These sources said the attack was reported to have been instigated by Japanese who doubted Wang's trustworthiness and took that means of warning him not to make any false moves in his relations with Japan.

Six men were said to have participated in the sudden attack. Nine shots were fired.

Important Point Is Whether Red Chief Stabilizes Soldiers

Russian Counter-Attacks Are Important, Too, in Nullifying Any German Guns

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Freeman Special News Service)

The Nazis have made a big gain in their Ukraine drive by capturing the great naval port and industrial center of Nikolaev, and Krivoi Rog, center of Russia's most productive iron mining area, but taking a long view of the position it must be said that this slam doesn't win the rubber.

The really vital factor—as this column has been insisting—is whether Soviet Marshal Budyenny in meeting this Hitlerian onslaught has been able to make strategic retirement to fresh defenses. In this connection it is significant that the Muscovites report having withdrawn from both Nikolaev and Krivoi Rog, and there is no indication of great loss of men or material.

We mustn't overlook, either, the tip the Russians give us in saying that they are counter-attacking heavily the northern flank of the Nazi advance into the Ukraine. Such a counter-measure, to hold this German flank from advancing, would be an essential operation in connection with a Red withdrawal farther south.

In short, it seems highly probable that Budyenny has pulled back large forces to defenses a little farther east behind the Dnieper river. It strikes me that he must make a stand here along a line which will have as its southern extremity the famous Crimea with its strong defenses, both land and naval. A glance at your maps will help here, please, and incidentally will remind you that on this historic peninsula is Galaklava, made immortal by "the charge of the light brigade."

Odessa Is Defended

Strong Red forces must, of course, have been left for the defense of Odessa, the great naval base which presumably will be the scene of a fierce fight. If we assume that the onrushing Germans will capture Odessa—and it seems likely that they will—then those Bolshevik troops in this area will be in a precarious position, their only means of escape being by sea under heavy Nazi aerial bombardment. However, the loss of Odessa or even of the troops defending it will not be decisive.

The German high command repeats that the "defeated enemy shows signs of disintegration." I'm afraid we've heard this same line for so many weeks now that, while we won't be careless enough to treat it as a cry of "wolf," we must insist on being shown before accepting the statement.

The indications are that when the smoke of battle has cleared away about Odessa we shall find the old Cossack Budyenny carrying on behind the new line I have indicated. Someway it is difficult to picture him as separated from his horse, and I suspect that he will be riding the line.

Churchill Returns To Britain, Visits Iceland en Route

Movie Film Shows Prime Minister and Roosevelt Conferred at Point Near Seacoast

London, Aug. 18 (AP)—Prime minister Winston Churchill returned to Britain safely today from an historic meeting at sea with President Roosevelt and a visit to Iceland, and was met by Minister of Information Brendan Bracken to complete arrangements for a probable broadcast by the prime minister.

The date for the broadcast has not been announced.

British and United States troops assigned to Iceland were inspected by Churchill on his way back from the Atlantic rendezvous.

The prime minister returned in the battleship Prince of Wales, which carried him to the historic meeting with the President of the United States. The port of arrival was not made public.

The prime minister was expected to return to London later today.

A British film of the meeting of President and prime minister showed that at least one of their talks was held close to shore.

Rocky Coastline Is Seen

A rocky coastline—which might have been Maine, Labrador or Iceland—was distinguishable in the background of a picture showing Churchill watching from the battleship Prince of Wales as a United States destroyer carried President Roosevelt away.

The President, it was disclosed here, visited the British battleship only once. That was Sunday, August 10. He came aboard for religious services and sang, with Churchill, "Land of Hope and Glory" and "Onward Christian Soldiers."

During the services, it was

It is an all-day affair and exhibits must be on the grounds by 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The fair is open to the general public and there is no charge for admission. Entries received at the Farm Bureau office on John street indicate the largest fair since these annual exhibitions have been held at Forsyth Park.

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—A raging fire, touched off by a series of explosions which shook lower Manhattan, destroyed the Cuba Mail Line pier in Brooklyn today, set an American freighter and several heavily-loaded barges aflame, and spread to a nearby pier used by British ships.

The American freighter Panuco, loaded with quicksilver, minerals and hemp, broke immediately into flames, was cut loose and drifted down the bay, a blazing mass from stem to stern.

Firemen rushed all equipment to the five-alarm fire to keep the blaze from spreading to the nearby Pier Line pier where British

Four Persons Hurt At Ulster Park in Two-Car Crackup

Highland Man Is Held as Drunken Driver and Will Be Given Hearing on Charge

Four persons were admitted to the Kingston Hospital at 1:15 o'clock this morning following a two-car crash at Ulster Park. All four were under treatment by Dr. Chester Van Gaasbeek.

The driver of one of the cars, Frank J. Mingey, 45, of Highland, was being held for a hearing before Justice John O. Beaver on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Mingey was arrested after the accident by State Trooper Gonet, who with Deputy Sheriff Charles McCullough investigated the crash.

At the hospital was Frank E. Lewis, Jr., of 25 Passaic Avenue, Passaic, N. J., operator of the second car, who suffered contusions of the face and forehead and an injury to his leg. Elsie Jochen and Nellie Zahorik, both of 23 Passaic Avenue, Passaic, N. J., riding in the Lewis car were injured and

There Are No Signs That U. S. Will Have More of Famed 'War' Bread as in 1917

Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP)—The American consumer may worry a bit about rising food prices and may have to eat a little less of some things, but the flour milling industry expects his bread diet to increase.

There is no immediate sign of any return of the famous "war" bread of 1917-18, milling trade experts agreed today.

The United States alone has almost enough wheat to satisfy domestic needs for two years. With the available surplus here and that in Canada, there is almost enough on the North American continent to match normal pre-war world exports for two years.

If the expected increase in consumption of flour in bread and other bakery products materializes, it will bring domestic use to the best level in a decade, milling trade statistics showed.

Red Troops Hit at Nazi North Flank

Timoshenko's Defenders of Moscow Repulse Other Nazis in Heavy Attacks

Port Is Taken

Nikolaev Is Captured by Germans; Yards Are Blown Up

(By The Associated Press)

Fierce Russian counter-attacks were reported today to have saved a Ukraine city identified as "K"—possibly Kiev, the capital—with 20,000 Germans killed and wounded after they had advanced within five miles of the town then were thrown back six to eight miles.

Red army troops still were advancing, Soviet dispatches said, hitting savagely at the northern flank of the long German wedge into the Ukraine.

On the central front, Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's defenders of the road to Moscow were reported to have repulsed other Nazi columns in large-scale counter-attacks. Near a city identified only as "M," the German losses were put at 5,000 men.

The Russians acknowledged that Nazi troops knifing across the heart of the Ukraine had captured the big port of Nikolaev, 60 miles northeast of Odessa, but declared that the city's shipyards had been blown up in the withdrawal.

Soviet officials also admitted the fall of Krivoi Rog, rich iron ore center, 100 miles northeast of Nikolaev, which the Germans claimed last week.

With the 1,200-mile battlefield from the Baltic to the Black Sea aflame in bitter night-long fighting, authoritative quarters in London said Adolf Hitler's invasion armies apparently had launched a major new offensive in the north, driving from Estonia toward Leningrad.

London advices said the Leningrad thrust was timed with the withdrawal of Marshal Semeon Budyenny's Red Armies in the south, where they were taking up a new defense line along the mile-wide Dnieper river. These quarters estimated the German attacking force in the Ukraine at more than 1,500,000 troops, including 40 to 50 infantry divisions, four to six armored divisions, and 40 to 50 divisions of Italians, Hungarians, Rumanians and Slovaks.

"During the night of August 17-18, our troops continued to fight the enemy along the entire front," a Red Army bulletin said tersely.

The Germans said that their forces were closing a trap around the Black Sea port of Odessa (normal population, 604,000) and that Soviet defenders of the city, a major base of the Russian Black Sea fleet, had only a 25-mile escape gap between Odessa and the Bug river.

A communique from Hitler's field headquarters asserted that the Soviet retreat along the low Dnieper was partly assuming the aspects of a rout.

Reports reaching Berlin indicated the Luftwaffe was pounding Soviet naval vessels operating along the north coast of the Black Sea but failed to specify whether these ships were evacuating or reinforcing the Odessa garrison.

Three Divisions Suffer
Elsewhere along the front three German divisions—the 262nd, 94th and 99th infantry—suffered losses ranging from 50 to 80 per cent of their normal strength, which would total approximately 43,500 men, a Moscow communique declared.

Moscow had its 20th air-raid alarm of the war last night but no reports of the raiders got through to the city.

The British pounded Germany and occupied France day and night during the week-end and followed up with raids again last night into sections of the Reich. Only a few German planes were reported over England.

Moscow announced yesterday the signing of a Russian-British commercial and economic accord. Under it, Britain was expected to send Russia rubber, tin, wool, hides, jute, rubber and similar commodities in exchange for platinum, hemp, flax, manganese, glycerine and timber.

Japan Refuses Satisfactory Reply

Hull Says Matter of Getting 100 Americans Out of Japan Hangs Fire

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull said today that Japan had given no satisfactory explanation for refusing to allow some 100 private American citizens to leave that country.

He said the matter was still under discussion but he declined to disclose the subject of a long talk today between Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and the Japanese foreign minister in Tokyo.

Tokyo reports said the two were believed to have discussed matters of the utmost importance.

Japan's refusal to permit the 100 Americans to leave prevented their evacuation on the S.S. President Coolidge which was to have been diverted for that purpose.

Hull said his talk yesterday with President Roosevelt, on the latter's return from his historic meeting with Prime Minister Winston Churchill, covered every geographical area in some form or another.

He declined, however, to disclose any details.

Retail Stores to Sell Defense Savings Stamps

Washington, D. C.—A million retail stores from coast to coast will be ready to sell Defense Savings Stamps to their customers within two weeks, it was reported by Secretary Morgenthau Sunday, August 17.

This was announced coincidentally with the appointment of a Treasury's Retailers Advisory Committee which will cooperate in securing the support of merchants in every city and hamlet to aid in the Defense Savings Program.

In a letter to Major Benjamin H. Namm, who was named chairman of the Treasury's Retailers Advisory Committee, Secretary Morgenthau wrote:

"I am delighted to learn of the meeting . . . at which support of fourteen national retail trade associations was pledged to promote the sale of U. S. Defense Savings Stamps . . . I understand that these trade associations speak for over a million retailers, located in every city and hamlet in the land, and employing over half of the four and one-half million retail employees."

"As we all know, every American is prepared to do his part in this national emergency if given the opportunity. Two million of our young men are in the armed forces . . . But there remains the great majority of our people who, for one reason or another, cannot participate by direct effort in this great and urgent cause."

George Fined $5

Robert George, 17, of West Haven, Conn., who has been in the Benedictine Hospital since he received a fractured leg in an automobile accident in June, was arrested on a warrant, following his discharge from the hospital Sunday and arraigned before Justice Percy Bush of the town of Ulster, where he paid a fine of $5 for driving without a license. George was injured when his car struck a tree along the Neighborhood Road.

Three Dutchmen Killed

Amsterdam, German-occupied Netherlands, Aug. 18 (AP)—Three Dutchmen paid with their lives today for assisting British fliers who made forced landings on Netherlands territory. Two others were sentenced to prison for life after court martial by German military authorities on charges that they gave food, money and civilian clothing to the grounded R. A. F. fliers who were said to have been caught trying to reach the channel coast.

The same theme was elaborated in other Japanese newspapers.

Grew Holds Conference

United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew held a lengthy conference with Japanese Foreign Minister Teijiro Toyoda, and it was reported that their discussion was of the utmost importance.

The Japanese have asserted that the recent sea meeting between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill bore directly on Japan's plan for a new order in East Asia, and presumably this phase entered into Grew's talk with Toyoda.

Woodstock

By JANE KENNEDY

Mr. Covelli came across with a second hit when he gave us "One Sunday Afternoon" last week-end at the Maverick. "The Women", given the preceding week was most enthusiastically received here in Woodstock and much credit must be given to Mr. McClure's direction. The entire cast will give a request performance tonight at the Sugar Maple Hotel, Maplecrest, near Windham. This week's play featured Emily McNair as Virginia and Margaret Phillips as Amy with Don Haggerty as Biff Grimes and Michael Barrett as Hugo Barnstead. All four did a fine piece of work. Emily McNair has shown week after week that she is a most capable actress and in "One Sunday Afternoon" she was very lovely in her two costumes, first in the white lawn with blue sash and large sailor hat and in the second act as the wife of the rich Hugo Barnstead she was stunning in her sophisticated Paris gown. This is one of the richest interpretations of a part that she has given.

During the past week, the daring girl in Avery's Park to the mature woman, Michael Barrett's best part of the season. Don Haggerty as the small town dentist added another point to his brilliant score of the entire summer. Well cast and beautifully moving his Biff Grimes. There are several scenes that must be mentioned, the first in Avery's Park, where the two gay spirits, Biff and Hugo meet the two girls, Virginia and Amy. This scene was beautifully presented. A path with lovely greens had been arranged in front of the stage and the two young girls were seated on a rustic bench, this is the most charming scene of the play with the two girls so charmingly dressed in the dresses of the season.

The second scene was simply beautiful in a soft cream voile with pink sash and a large poke bonnet hat of pink satin. Margaret was lovely as the gentle and faithful Amy. One of Margaret's best parts of the season. Another scene is the return of Biff from prison when he and Amy meet in the same park a few years later. The two girls were nearly walked away with the play in the part of Snappy Downer. The others in the cast were splendid and made the performance long to be remembered. The beer garden scene was pure entertainment with those fun provoking colored entertainers from the Plantation.

Thursday evening, with the opening of "Coney Island", we were afforded a great deal of entertainment with the troupe of Frank M. Thomas' play. First of all with the splendid acting of Mr. Thomas, who endeared himself to all with his very human portrayal of the father of the boy genius of the play and then Frankie, a very charming juvenile actor of real distinction. Frankie has a wonderful personality and made the boy really live. There is a great deal of power and magnetism in this young lad and one can see why he has already done such important work both on the screen and in the world of the theatre.

Frankie played the piano on the stage and has done a wonderful job in the last two years. He is studying with Professor Leonard Bowden in New York. William Halstead as the press agent, Wade, never was better. Looking back on his work of the summer there is of course his character spot in "Mademoiselle" as the engineer but this part is very much suited to him. He is very handsome and sympathetic in the part. Phyllis Ellerha as the love interest was very beautiful and smart and Anatol Winogradoff had them laughing before he opened his mouth. He is excellent in pantomime. Helen Baysinger showed what can be done with a few lines in capable hands. Her scene where she has the cry-fist, was wonderful.

Philippa Bevans was the Diva and with Ivan Triesault as her husband, created a charming pair. Duane McKinney had one of those fine, a few minutes on the stage and he had them, he was the photographer. Two of the apprentice players had small parts, Joan Stratgate as a maid and Jack Senior as a waiter. Jack did a great deal in his spot, his facial expression was priceless. Bob Harris did the doorman at Carnegie Hall, a good character. While I enjoyed the play very much, I kept seeing it as a movie. It would make a very good picture with Frankie Thomas in the lead. It seems to me that the thought of the medium of the photo play, the mood of background, concert life, would enrich the theme. With the rewriting that is being done, the play will be given another try-out this season before coming to New York.

Financial and Commercial

New York City Produce Market

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Further recovery tendencies appeared in today's stock market as rails, steels, and aircraft returned to moderate popularity.

Prices were best in the forenoon. Gains ranging from fractions to a point or so were pared later and dealings, relatively fast for a brief interval, reverted to sluggishness near the final hour. Transfers were at the rate of approximately 400,000 shares.

Come-back propensities were attributed mainly to the belief the list, which had been up slightly only twice on average since July 28, might have been oversold. Taxes and government controls persisted as handicaps, brokers said, as did unfavorable German-Russian war news and Far Eastern tension.

Bonds steadied. Commodities were narrow.

Among stocks attracting bids were Santa Fe, Great Northern, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Boeing, United Aircraft, Westinghouse, Anaconda and Kennecott.

Remington Arms Given Contract

Contract for Ammunition Is Announced

Contract for the operation of Utah Ordnance Plant at Salt Lake City, Utah, was awarded today to the Remington Arms Company, Inc., of Bridgeport, Conn.

The contract for an estimated total of $86,058,331, is for one year's operation of the plant, and for management service, including sub-contracts for architect-engineering and for construction.

Ball, armor piercing and tracer ammunition of 30 and 50 caliber type will be manufactured at the plant, and production will be commenced as soon as construction of the first operation unit is completed. One year's capacity production is purchased by the contract.

Of the total estimated cost of the contract, approximately $18,500,000 is expected to be used for sub-contracts for the designing and constructing of the plant. Another $11,985,000 will be used to purchase the machinery and equipment. Specifications for this equipment were drawn up by the Remington Arms Company, Inc., and contracted for by the War Department under Letters of Intent and announced on July 2. The War Department issued a Letter of Intent to the Remington Arms Co., Inc., to make these early arrangements for the machinery in order to be assured that the plant will be in production at the earliest possible date.

About 100 buildings will be constructed on the site comprising approximately 5,000 acres. These buildings range in size from small isolated explosives buildings to large manufacturing buildings, and include the following types: Machine shops, ballistics proof buildings, range buildings, powder magazines and chemical storage houses. The buildings will be widely scattered.

The plant will be government owned and operated by its agent, the Remington Arms Company, Inc. Work will be commenced as soon as construction contracts can be awarded.

'Football' Helmet Now Used by Army

Toughened Headgear Type Slated for Tank Crews

An adaptation of a football helmet, toughened and equipped with earphones, is the latest headgear to be worn by tank crews of the army's armored force.

About 80 per cent of the tank elements of the present armored force are already supplied with this article of safety equipment, and reports from the field show that the new helmet can take it, according to the war department.

It has been nearly 25 years since the first tank helmet was worn. This early model, too, was similar to its contemporary football headgear, and was worn by pioneers in tank warfare who now are guiding the modern armored force.

Four or five years ago tank crews wore metal helmets with protective pads of leather and rubber protruding around the outside body.

The 1941 model is far snappier in appearance and far better able to absorb the shock of impact against the walls and projections of the tank.

Selected by the Armored Force Board from several models submitted in a competition, the new helmet is made of pressed fiber and lined with leather and sponge rubber. It has an adjustable head suspension.

The ear flaps are of leather, sewed to the body of the helmet and lined with soft leather and sponge rubber. A recess in each ear flap provided for holding ear phones. Pressure of the ear flaps against the ears is maintained by means of springs fastened to the sides of the helmet. The flaps may be raised and held away from the ears by means of leather strips that extend over the top of the helmet.

An adjustable elastic band extending across the back of the helmet secures it to the head. Detachable elastic band straps secure the goggles of tank crews to the helmet.

Main differences between the tank helmet and its football counterpart are the earphone spaces, the extension in the rear to protect the base of the skull and the extra shock absorbers.

New Department Will Make Study Of War Wounded

The treatment on battlefields of the wounded and the progress of industrial medicine as adopted to military practice will be studied by a new department, known as the "Department of Medicine and Surgery in Forward Areas," now being established at the Medical Field Service School at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., the War Department announced today.

A great mass of information relative to new methods of treatment for wounded has been received from European battlefields since the war started, but until now it has been impossible to evaluate properly these methods. The new department of the Carlisle school will collect, classify, evaluate and disseminate such information, in addition to other advances in field medicine and surgery.

The primary purpose of the department, after careful study of prevailing war conditions, will be to improve upon the methods of handling wounded, particularly at the time and place the casualty occurs.

An additional function of the department will be to make a close study of the advancement of industrial medicine as it relates to military medicine. This study will include accident causes and the necessary resulting treatment.

Many accidents, or casualties, result directly from the use of certain equipment such as trucks or motor cars. The new department is scheduled to make a full study of all "occupational" hazards.

The army, in clothing, feeding, equipping and transporting troops, operates almost every conceivable type of industry and the study of industrial hazards is designed to cut down on accidents within the army.

Commercial Solvents Corp. Given Ammonia Contract

The War Department today announced the award of a contract to the Commercial Solvents Corp., of New York city, for the construction and management of a plant to manufacture anhydrous ammonia at the Dixie Ordnance Works, Sterling, La. The contract provides for subcontracting the architect-engineering and the construction work, in addition to training key personnel and subsequent management of the plant by the Commercial Solvents Corp. during production of an estimated year's output of ammonia. Total cost of the contract is estimated at approximately $9,250,000. The contract was approved by the Office of Production Management.

Anhydrous ammonia is made by nitrogen fixation processes which combine nitrogen and hydrogen gases under terrific heat and pressure. Special pipes of alloy steel are required. The ammonia, mixed with air and passed over a catalyst or facilitating agent (in this case it usually is red-hot platinum gauze), becomes nitric acid, a prime component of high explosives.

The plant will be government owned and agent operated.

Not Too Old

Philadelphia — Julius Wiener registered as air-raid warden service, giving his age as 81. Later he admitted he was 86.

"I said I was 81," he explained, "because I was afraid they wouldn't take an old man of 86."

He was accepted.

Silver Lining

Winsted, Conn. — An early spring and unusually dry weather brought more skunks to Winsted than this city has seen in 25 years and that, says nurseryman, H. Parkes Holcomb, is a blessing.

Skunks consider Japanese beetle a prime delicacy, he declared, and are not only controlling but gradually eliminating the pest hereabouts.

Canine Convincing?

Dallas — What's this about a dog being man's best friend? Night Watchman L. M. Gilbert heard his dog barking. He investigated. A man jabbed a pistol in his ribs and took a purse containing $12.

Hot News!

Dallas — "What's wrong with this car," said Louis Dawson, moping his brow as he motored home from a vacation.

Still moping that brow, by now furrowed with worry, Dawson pulled into a garage. This car's about ready to blow up," it's so hot," he told a mechanic.

"Why don't you turn off the heater?" came the query.

Rude Awakening

Belleville, Ill. — Pvt. Gerald A. Sparks took a nap in the shade beneath an automobile in a parking lot. Failed to wake up when the owner departed. He was treated for minor injuries.

Latin America has become more dependent upon the United States for factory goods than ever before in modern trade history.

Mayor Speaks at Firemen's Session

Fire Chief Also to Attend Convention at Geneva

Mayor Conrad J. Heiselman and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy left by auto this morning for Geneva, where the mayor has been honored by being invited to make the principal address on the opening day of the 69th annual convention of the Firemen's Association of the State of New York. A group of local volunteer firemen are also attending the convention as delegates from local companies.

The mayor will deliver his address at 2 p. m. on Tuesday. Lieutenant Governor Charles Poletti will deliver the principal address of the second day of the convention on Wednesday, and the big parade will be held Thursday.

Last year when Mayor Heiselman was president of the New York State Mayor's Conference, he inaugurated a system of consultation between the Mayor's Conference and the Law Committee of the Firemen's Association, of which Seth T. Cole, widely recognized authority on fireman's law and affairs, is chairman. As a result of these meetings, all differences were ironed out and many laws for the benefit of the volunteer firemen and the taxpayers were enacted.

The mayor and fire chief expect to return to Kingston Tuesday night or Wednesday.

Record Entries Given for Fair

Almost Every Department Ahead at Syracuse

Syracuse, Aug. 18—Record and near-record entries have been made in virtually every agricultural and livestock department of the 101st annual New York State Fair, which will open here Sunday, August 24, for nine days and nine nights.

Entries in the various classifications follow closely the trend of the times, Paul Smith, state fair director, pointed out. World conditions and their effect upon the farmers of New York state are reflected in many departments.

Typical of this is the marked jump in the number of pigeons entered. The total has climbed from 804 to 1,412 birds, an increase of 75 per cent. This increase is ascribed to added interest in pigeon breeding based on the possibility of the use of pigeons as carriers in the event of war.

Large cattle exhibitors of other states, who make it a part of their business to show over a circuit of major state fairs, are not as noticeable as heretofore. In explanation, they point to the fact that the farm labor problem, coupled with their efforts to increase production, has caused them to refrain from showing over a circuit.

However, the livestock show is as big—in fact bigger—than in recent years, and analyzed it provides a truer picture of the dairy and beef cattle business in the Empire State. More than 1,000 head in all will be on exhibition.

The "baby beef sale," to be conducted Tuesday, will find 75 head being auctioned off. This sale, a high spot of 4-H club participation in the exposition, is expected to yield more than $12,000 for a record total from the sale.

ULSTER COUNTY FAIR

From the increased interest upon the part of exhibitors, this year's annual Ulster County Fair and Farmers' Field Day to be held at Forsyth Park on Wednesday, August 20, will be bigger and better than ever. Kingston residents welcome those attending this county-wide event and look forward each year to having the farm folks in their midst.

The educational benefits, together with the distribution of valuable information and the many prizes and premiums offered also the entertainment have made this annual picnic a great meeting place for both farmer and city residents.

At the Ulster County Fair there is no garish midway with its medicine men and chance concessions, but in its stead are booths displaying the latest inventions and improvements for both the farmer and his housewife. This school of instruction has brought valuable and lasting benefits to the farmer. Of course there will be a program of entertainment and plenty of refreshments in addition to the interesting exhibits of fruits, vegetables, poultry, cattle, etc. Athletic games, amusements and picnic lunches—all of the important attractions that go to make the farmers' field day a worthwhile event—will be enjoyed. The renewing of acquaintances in a real old-fashioned get-together is another pleasurable part of the fair.

The committee in charge has worked zealously to make this fair a success and their efforts will be appreciated by all who attend. The well-arranged program will appeal to both farmer and city dweller.

Everyone is invited to attend and there is no admission charge.

LEARNING ABOUT AMERICA

When American youngsters "invade Canada" for their summer vacations, they go on marshmallow roasts with their Canadian acquaintances, they sail with them and trail with them, swim, dance, eat each other's food and like each other no end. This year additional zest is lent to the fun by the presence of the young "Guests of Canada" from overseas. Life in Glasgow was never like that in the Canadian woods—nor life in London or the cities of the Midlands. Arguments are frequent, but prejudices vanish.

"Aunt Mary, what was the War of 1812 about? Good day for sailing?"

"Freedom of the seas. Impressment of American seamen. Morning chores before sailing."

"Hi, kids, get in some wood while I fill the water pails."

"Impressment of Canadian woodsmen? Eh? Where's the ax? But you had no business invading Canada!"

Uncle Jim taps the barometer. Aunt Mary starts to spread the sandwiches and when they are off, Young America explains that Uncle Jim says invading a peaceful nation for purposes of grabbing what they have is wrong, but just fighting back and forth over a border is different. When two nations are in a war they have to fight wherever it seems advisable.

This kind of thing goes on and on. Which lends interest to the fact that even before the war the British Board of Education decided its teachers were lacking in knowledge of American history and a number of short courses have been arranged to remedy the deficiency.

We like this idea. And Americans could study more English, Canadian and Latin-American history than they do without hurting them any.

A PLAGUE TO FIGHT

Insect pests are not the only menaces confronting America today. Common rats have increased in numbers in many American cities and no Pied Piper has turned up to pipe them all to oblivion.

The rat is a filth-carrying animal. It spreads disease and increases the fire menace. It destroys a great deal of property and food. It is said that 3,000,000 rats in a city will do from $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 worth of damage a year.

What can be done about them? The first thing, says a public official, is to deprive them of free meals. With a food supply entirely lacking rats will go elsewhere in search of it. Carelessness in handling garbage has brought an invasion of rats to many cities. Rubbish offers both food and shelter for rats and should not be allowed to collect in yards or vacant lots, basements, garages or private residences, or in public buildings.

Buildings should be rat-proofed. Drains should be covered with galvanized hardware cloth. Foundations should be checked regularly for breaks. Such measures will induce the rat population to move on and keep others from moving in. If there are already millions around, a shooting and trapping war on them would help.

THE CAPTAIN'S V

The Captain of the Belgian ship Mercier, torpedoed, went down with his boat in the old and true tradition of the sea. But he added a modern note, says one of the few survivors, picked up by a small Finnish freighter and dropped at Norfolk, Va., after a hard experience.

Just as the ship went down, the Captain tooted dot-dot-dot-dash! V for Victory! on the whistle. Then he, six of his crew, and his ship were gone.

As Hitler and the Japs make their desperate and deluded effort at world conquest, forcing all the nations of the earth to arm against them, the derisive V goes with them, whistling, tapping, marking its way around the world.

When baseball fans are grateful there's no holding 'em. In Sacramento they've just given Pepper Martin an auto, a hunting dog, a crate of pure-bred chickens, and a welding machine. But why did they stop there?

LIGHTNING FLASHES

One of the perplexing conditions that sometimes occur is little specks which apparently float across the front part of the eye. For some time it was thought that this might be a sign or symptom of some serious eye condition. However, eye specialists tell us that these specks or spots (muscae volitantes) are just shadows made by the drops or bubbles of the liquid matter that fills the eyeball. They have no significance as far as the eyes or general health is concerned. They are harmless.

Another eye condition that disturbs many individuals is what is called "lightning flashes." Dr. R. F. Moore, who wrote about this condition before, now tells us in American Journal of Ophthalmology, of 33 additional cases.

The symptoms consist of the occurrence of flashes of light, most often likened by the patient to lightning; they are usually vertical (up and down) in direction and are accompanied by the little opacities or spots. They are more common in women; among the 33 cases, 26 were women. They seldom occur before middle age; of the 33 cases only 3 were under 50 years of age, the average being just over 60 years.

Now, just as the spots before the eyes has caused alarm, so even to a greater extent do these lightning flashes cause alarm.

However, Dr. Moore made a careful study of these flashes, fearing at first that they might be a sign of blood vessel disturbance (high blood pressure), a growth, or, perhaps, the tearing of the retina which receives the impression of objects before they are sent on to the brain. He found, however, that these flashes are not of serious importance, nor are they the forerunner of any serious condition.

"It is just a symptom that does not carry any serious implication, either at present nor in the future. Neither is it a part of or symptom of migraine (one-sided headache) although the flashes occur toward the side of the head."

I am passing along this information regarding these flashes so that readers will not be disturbed should they occur. It was some years before it was learned that spots before the eyes are harmless. It is gratifying to learn so soon that these lightning flashes are likewise of no significance.

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington—Senator Carl Hayden, Arizona, shepherding the now vetoed $320,000,000 defense highway bill through the Senate, gave an enlightening exposition on distribution of federal highway funds.

Going back to 1933 and the days of the $3,300,000,000 relief bill Senator Hayden explained that he had gone to the President and outlined his belief that the quickest way to put people to work would be to earmark a portion of the relief funds for highway construction.

The President said he had delegated relief to four members of the cabinet, Secretary of War Dorn, Secretary of Labor Perkins, Secretary of Interior Ickes and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Dorn and Wallace immediately approved the plan. Secretaries Ickes and Perkins balked.

They were, Senator Hayden declared, without political experience. They felt that the funds should be disbursed in unemployment centers. Talking to Secretary Ickes, the Senator said: "Mr. Secretary, you are new and without political experience. It is becoming known in Arizona that a man named Ickes has money in Washington to improve the road between Tucson and Phoenix, and the people ask me to get some money for that road, I am coming to see you."

Secretary Ickes explained that there were at least some senators who were willing to take that chance.

Yes, Senator Hayden explained, some senators would be willing to take a chance on getting there before the other fellow, but finally "you will have 96 senators and 435 representatives on your neck, whereas if the matter is handled in the normal way, and the money is apportioned among the states, so that the work can be decently

Without 'Political Experience'

The senator then reported to the President that "two members of the cabinet who understood the situation" approved earmarking the funds and apportioning them to the states; but "that two members who were without political experience objected and wanted to create a great bureaucracy in Washington, which would compel the sponsor of every road project to come to Washington and secure its approval."

The President did not want that, Senator Hayden said, adding that "that was before the bureaucrats in Washington had had time to influence his thinking."

So, with the aid of attorneys from the Comptroller General's office, Senator Hayden drew the legislation which gave the states $400,000,000 for highways—on a population and mileage apportionment basis that has been our policy ever since. There is no more mystery to it than that.

But that doesn't explain all the mystery behind the present defense highway act. The original survey, completed last February, gathered dust for months while various departments and agencies argued about who would have charge of it. Finally, only $125,000,000 was asked, with the suggestion that it be disbursed by the President on a basis of defense needs.

When the bill finally passed, Congress had upped the sum to $320,000,000 and gone back to the old apportionment policy. Dubbed as pure "pork-barrel" legislation by its opponents, the measure was vetoed by the President and the veto upheld in the House by the narrowest margin.

Split Party Lines

One of the most interesting things about the veto was how it split party lines. It brought Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg to the President's defense and called forth the remark from Sen. Kenneth McKellar, "I have been here eight years under the Administration of Mr. Roosevelt, and so far as I recall, this is the first and only time the senator has ever argued that President Roosevelt should be trusted."

Senator Vandenberg answered: "Well, this is the first and only time I can remember that the President has ever said anything about economy."

A new defense highway bill to take care of the bridges in the country that won't carry a medium tank and to build access roads to military and defense industrial centers already is in the making. Best guess is that the new bill will total about $100,000,000 less than the one that smashed up on the presidential veto.

Construction of Storage

Facilities Is Outlined

The War Department today announced the allocation of approximately $12,000,000 for the construction, dependent upon satisfactory acquisition of the real estate involved, of general storage facilities at Marietta, Pa., and Voorheesville, N. Y.

Inside and outside storage space will be provided at each location. At both Marietta and Voorheesville, there will be 2,000,000 square feet of open space suitable for parking vehicles and storing durable supplies, and 1,000,000 square feet of warehouse space. The warehousing and administration facilities will be of brick and tile with concrete floors. Concrete loading platforms, rail switching facilities, classification and receiving yards and necessary utilities will also be provided.

Approximately half of the allocation will be used for each depot.

Bread Cast on International Waters Is Returning for Litvinov and Cripps

AP Feature Service

The worm has turned for Sir Stafford Cripps, one-time bad boy of British politics.

An "aristocratic socialist", Cripps abandoned a $100,000 a year law practice to work for what he termed the nearest thing to Christianity he could find in modern civilization. His opposition to government policies in general and his advocacy of friendship with Soviet Russia in particular won for him the title of "most dangerous revolutionary in England."

It proved to be a lonely mission, but Cripps made the most of it. He laid the groundwork for whatever collaboration there will be between the only powerful nations opposing Hitler and in so doing he completed a tedious cycle from the role of political outcast to a place high in the councils of British government.

Maxim Litvinov's brand of salesmanship is back in good standing in Russia, and according to reports, the former Soviet foreign commissar is back in good standing too.

Litvinov in his heyday played up to England, did his best to sell her on Russian respectability. He played up to the United States, too, and was a factor in achieving U. S. recognition of the Soviet Union. Incidentally, he proposed a British-French-Russian alliance against Nazi Germany that was rejected by the British.

That was in the 1930's before Munich and before Germany marched into Poland. But even after the war was under way, Cripps was a prophet with precious little honor either abroad or at home. Even Russia refused to warm up to him. In the spring of 1940 he had been selected by Churchill for a trade mission to Moscow. The Soviet officials were cold and would not admit him until the British government gave him the rank of ambassador.

It proved to be a lonely mission, but Cripps made the most of it. He laid the groundwork for whatever collaboration there will be between the only powerful nations opposing Hitler and in so doing he completed a tedious cycle from the role of political outcast to a place high in the councils of British government.

Came June, 1941, and the German panzer divisions began breaking across the Russian border. Russia set herself for battle but she was not averse to looking about for outside help. That's when the world heard once more from Litvinov, the one among 190,000,000 Russians best qualified to direct appeals to the only possible sources of material aid—Britain and the United States.

Shortly after resigning the position of manager, Mr. Cochran and his friend Charles E. Powell, the paper box manufacturer of Pine Grove avenue, on January 21, of that year, left Kingston to motor to Miami, Fla.

Owing to the fact that in 1919, Mr. Powell had motored across country to California he qualified as a motoring expert, and as I recall it both he and Mr. Cochran enjoyed the Florida trip in 1920.

Mistakes by Defense Mediation Board Might Bring Tribunal Unpartisan in Nature

(By DAVID LAWRENCE)

Washington, Aug. 18.—Abolition of the National Defense Mediation Board and the creation of a tribunal that is not composed of partisans of either labor or capital would seem to be forecast as a consequence of the grave mistakes made by the existing agency.

For, unless repudiated by the President, the latest official pronouncement of the mediation board may result in a new wave of strikes and industrial unrest which the board was supposed to have averted.

In a statement by William H. Davis, chairman of the mediation board, the full prestige and authority of a governmental agency is for the first time placed squarely behind the principle of employer coercion and compulsory unionism. Although Mr. Davis contends that an arrangement whereby the employer is compelled to threaten dismissal of all employees who do not maintain membership in a union in good standing has nothing to do with a "closed shop," employers who have for generations fought this compulsory set up will not be dissuaded by an argument on terminology.

As for terms, the U. S. Department of Labor in a bulletin issued in October 1939, describes the various forms of "closed shops" in America and formally lists among them the scheme whereby the employer is made responsible for the maintenance of union membership by employees who have already joined a union.

In other words a closed shop as understood by American industry, is any arrangement whereby the employer is compelled by the terms of a contract to intrude into the relationship between the employee and his union. The spirit of the Wagner Act to abolish employer interference and though one provision says such contracts are not illegal the whole purpose of the act is to keep employers from meddling in union affairs.

Mr. Davis by his letter to Secretary Knox commits the National Defense Mediation Board to the idea of clauses in contracts which will compel employers to discharge workers who once having joined the union wish to resign or who fail to pay dues. He thus has taken a step which the national war labor board during the first World War did not venture to take. That board strove to avoid strikes by asking both sides to "freeze" the situation, namely to allow "closed shops" to remain where they already existed and to get all sides to agree not to introduce any more "closed shops" during the emergency.

This was and is a sensible national labor policy and by it neither side waives its rights to future agitation once the emergency is over. But the National Defense Mediation Board plunged into one of the most perplexing issues of unionism and actuality granted to a union recently a form of "closed shop" after that same union had defied its own national officers and the plea of the President and his cabinet to keep the North American Aviation Company plant in operation. It seems that the reward given to the strikers by the mediation board was a clause forced upon management to keep intact the very union which had ignored all government requests and had interrupted the defense program.

Now it is proposed that the Kearny, N. J., plant of the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock Company where the closed shop issue has flared up be seized by the government. This will not settle the question. For the right to strike is not limited to those who work with their hands. The mediation board may go too far and force management to withdraw and go on strike, too, leaving the plants without operating personnel. Such a consequence would be the logical outcome of the partisan policy of the mediation board.

The main trouble with the mediation board is that despite its conscientious endeavors and hard work, it is not neutral and for that reason has lost the confidence of many important factors in American industrial management.

One reason is that it was selected from the ranks of labor's partisans. The union representatives, of course, are public representatives are men known to be friendly to unionism and who evidently are much more concerned about unionization than they are about avoiding issues which tie up defense work.

With two votes against the employers, the third member who represents management is in the minority. Thus does one man vote in a panel of partisans decide momentous issues of labor policy which Congress itself has never ventured to decide.

President Roosevelt has said that the "recommendations" of the mediation board should be accepted and that there should be no work stoppages pending attempts to conciliate. In defiance of that request, the C.I.O. union at Kearny has called a strike involving $493,000,000 of naval contracts. The company in question has offered its plant to the government for immediate operation and possession if the government takes over, there can presumably be no form of closed shop. So what is gained by the mediation board in making a public statement which from coast to coast will be seized upon as the justification for the first steps on the part of unions everywhere to strike for a closed shop? And what can be lost now by a union that strikes hereafter on that issue? It is assured that a governmental agency will back up its demands. Such a chaotic result could have been avoided if the National Defense Mediation Board had stuck to its main job—mediation between the parties instead of taking sides on abstract union issues which for generations have not been settled and which for a year or two longer while the war emergency lasts certainly do not need to be brought to a climax.

When any tribunal called a "mediation" board takes sides, it outlives its usefulness and a new board is necessary if progress toward peace is to be made.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The other day I wrote a sketch regarding the changes in the business life of Kingston calling attention to the old Board of Trade which functioned at the turn of the century. In an old clipping I find that on January 21, 1910, the Board of Trade decided to incorporate under the name of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce functioned for a number of years, and the last president of the organization, as I recall it, was Judge Bernard A. Culliton, now boss of the Democratic party in Ulster county.

Many of the older readers of this column will recall the days of the building of the Ashokan reservoir at the turn of the century. I recall that on January 24, 1910, William McMurtre, Speaker of New York city, was named to serve as special counsel for New York city in the trying of the Ashokan reservoir damage claims. Mr. Speer, who was a former newspaper man, was an able lawyer as members of the Ulster County Bar who practiced in those early days will recall.

Judge William H. Grogan of this city, in those early days was associated with Mr. Speer. Jumping ahead a decade I recall that in January, 1920, E. L. Chase of Goshen was selected as manager of the Ulster County Farm Bureau to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Charles F. Cochran, who had successfully held the job for two years.

Shortly after resigning the position of manager, Mr. Cochran and his friend Charles E. Powell, the paper box manufacturer of Pine Grove avenue, on January 21, of that year, left Kingston to motor to Miami, Fla.

Owing to the fact that in 1919, Mr. Powell had motored across country to California he qualified as a motoring expert, and as I recall it both he and Mr. Cochran enjoyed the Florida trip in 1920.

The Home for the Aged on Green street was opened in January, 1920, and the board of women managers selected Mrs. George Hutton of this city, as president of the board. The vice-presidents were Mrs. John A. Snyder of Saugerties, Mrs. George Deyo of Nanapanoch, and Mrs. W. Scott Gillespie of Kingston. The recording secretary was Mrs. Everett Fowler; corresponding secretary, Miss Sarah Horton, and Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, treasurer.

It was in January, 1920, that St. Peter's Glebe Club put on an interesting minstrel show with

Farmers Request Buckwheat News

'New' Tartary Grain Said to Be Good Yields

Geneva, N. Y., Aug. 18.—Farmers and millers alike address inquiries to the feed inspection laboratory of the State Experiment Station here concerning "new" grain said to produce from 40 to 50 bushels per acre which usually turns out to be Tartary buckwheat, says Prof. A. W. Clark, Station chemist. Tartary buckwheat was once widely grown in many sections of this country and in Canada but has now given way to improved varieties which possess higher feeding value, if not as great yielding ability, says this authority.

Tartary buckwheat has gone under many different names in the localities where it has been grown and this probably accounts to a considerable degree for lack of information concerning it. Some of the names applied to it are rye buckwheat, India buckwheat, duck wheat, bloomless buckwheat, marino, mountain, Siberian, wild goose Calcutta and Guinosa buckwheat.

"Most of the inquiries regarding buckwheat relate to the feeding value of the grain and its uses," says Professor Clark, who continues, "When the composition of Tartary buckwheat is compared with that of such commercial varieties as Japanese and Silver-hull, it is noted that Tartary has a slightly lower feeding value, the principal difference being a higher fiber content. According to G. L. F. recommendations in the past, when other farm grains are high priced, buckwheat grains in general can be used in poultry scratch feeds where they can be utilized up to 20 per cent of the mixture without grinding. For feeding cows and pigs the grain should be ground and bolted to remove the hulls after which it can be used up to 20 per cent of the mixture to replace corn, wheat, or oats."

Buckwheat is also well suited for use as an orchard cover crop, soil renovator, and weed destroyer. For these purposes Tartary buckwheat is especially well adapted because it is much harder, less subject to frost injury and thrives much better on the poorest land than ordinary varieties of buckwheat.

Annual Carnival At Eddyville on Saturday, Aug. 23

Carnival time, traditional time of fun, feast and frolic, is again coming to Eddyville.

As has been the custom for the past number of years the annual carnival held under the joint sponsorship of the Sacred Heart Church of Eddyville and the Holy Name Church of Wilbur, will be held on Saturday evening, August 23.

This is one night of the year when all the folks of Eddyville, Wilbur and surrounding countryside, together with large numbers of summer residents and vacationists, forget about all else and join in a night of song and dance under a sponsorship extremely worthy of their patronage.

The setting for this annual gala affair is atop Cutler Hill in Eddyville. The natural beauty of this old hill will be augmented by hundreds of gaily colored lights and streamers. Novel costumes of the natives and appropriate music will extend the atmosphere of the carnival.

There will be continuous music of the old fashioned and modern varieties to suit the step of old and young.

There will be special events for the children, the feature of which will be the famous pie eating contest which attracts the attention of both young and old.

This is the first carnival held since Father McCabe assumed the pastorate of the Eddyville and Wilbur churches and the various committees are working zealously

Broadway Preview Of 'White Pony'

Has Undergone Complete
Rewriting by Miss Lloyd

Local theatre-goers will be afforded an opportunity to witness a bona fide Broadway preview when Marion Lloyd's comedy-drama, "White Pony," receives its second tryout this Thursday through Sunday at the Woodstock Playhouse with Charita Bauer returning to head a cast which the Shuberts plan to have Robert Elwyn direct in New York for the October premiere.

Since its tryout at Elwyn's Playhouse last year, "White Pony" has undergone a complete rewriting by Miss Lloyd. As a matter of fact, the play almost was put on the Broadway boards in May, but the Shuberts decided the seasonal slump in business would be too severe to give Miss Lloyd's first effort a fair chance.

The young and delightful Miss Mauer has been identified as the metaphoric "white pony" of the story ever since her engaging performance at the Playhouse last season. Now 18, she has been principally occupied of late with dramatic shows on the radio, "The Aldrich Family" among others, and earlier in the season appeared on Broadway with Frankie Thomas in "Your Loving Son."

With Miss Bauer, Playhouse audiences will see Kay Strozzi, prominent stage actress; Patricia Pearson, who appeared in "White Pony" last year as the girl friend of Miss Bauer's "Kathie"; Pauline Meyers, colored comedienne who also scored in last season's offering; Marcella Swanson, Robert Shayne, William Brock, Jr., and Ivan Triesault, standby of Elwyn's resident company, who is husband of the author.

Curley Returns to Politics

Boston, Aug. 18 (AP)—Big Jim Curley headed back to the political stump today. The Democratic veteran of almost a half-century of party activity announced he was petitioning for nomination papers to enter the race for mayor next fall. Seeking again the mayoralty he already has had three times, Curley, who was governor of Massachusetts in 1935-36, will have among his opponents Boston's youthful Mayor Maurice J. Tobin who formally declared himself yesterday a candidate for reelection for the 4-year, $20,000 post.

New York Cities Build Many Homes In 11-Year Period

Minneapolis, August 18—Home building in 22 New York cities last year reached the second highest value and volume levels in eleven years, D. E. Ryan, vice president of Investors Syndicate, revealed here today.

There were 2,860,847 dwelling units in these cities on April 1, 1940, according to the U. S. Bureau of Census. Of these 289,151, or only 10.1 per cent, figures made available for the first time by Investors Syndicate indicate, were built between January 1, 1931 and March 31, 1940.

The cities used in this survey are Albany, Amsterdam, Auburn, Binghamton, Buffalo, Elmira, Jamestown, Kingston, Mt. Vernon, Newburgh, New Rochelle, New York city, Niagara Falls, Poughkeepsie, Rochester, Schenectady, Syracuse, Troy, Utica, Watertown, White Plains and Yonkers.

Volume Down
"These New York cities," explained Mr. Ryan in commenting on the company's new national housing survey, "provided new homes in 1940 for 157,112 people, a drop of 30,052, or 16 per cent, from 1939, when new homes were built for 187,164 persons. Last year new housing was provided for 8,212 fewer people (five per cent) than the 165,324 total in 1939. Homes put up in these cities from 1931 to 1940, inclusive, furnish shelter for 1,265,304 people; meanwhile population in these same cities, according to the 1940 Census, totaled 10,408,980, a rise of 1,236,419, or 1.3 per cent, over the final 1930 population of 9,172,561.

"These 22 New York cities, in point of 1940 new home volume, ranked first in a list of 41 states and the District of Columbia; their volume position for the ten-year total was also first. The 1940 drop from 1939 ranked first in the list, and in point of fall from 1930 these cities were likewise first. The 42 regions contain 310 cities. This survey excludes Idaho, Mississippi, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Vermont and Wyoming.

"The 1940 volume in these New York cities represented 12.4 per cent of the total residential building for the ten-year period. Volume peak of 187,164 came in 1939, while the low was in 1932, when only 26,252 people were furnished with new homes." Fourteen of these cities reported

Johnston Urges 'Break' for Youth

Alcatraz Warden Says There
Are Three Danger Signals

San Francisco, Aug. 18 (AP)—If this country would spend more money "in the making of citizens" it would not have to spend so much in the re-making of delinquent children and criminals, Warden James A. Johnston of Alcatraz Federal Penitentiary, asserted today in his presidential address to the American Prison Association.

The schools are in a position to do the most good, especially if they can have the help of the home, church and the social agencies for child training and guidance, Johnston added.

The association's convention opened today on the keynote of crime control for national security and defense. Hundreds of penologists, probation and parole officials and executives of prisons and reformatories attended.

Johnston, who directs the government's much discussed prison for incorrigible criminals on an island in San Francisco Bay, asserted there were three danger signals for which parents, teachers and social workers should be on the alert:

The tendency toward delinquency at a very early age.

Failure of the child to get education as he develops.

Dropping out of school before the youngster gets through the elementary grades.

"The finest prison," Johnston said, "is but a monument to neglected youth."

Professor Advises Women About Raising Silkworms

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—Ambitious American housewives are cautioned by a Cornell University professor against counting on beating the silk shortage with a few silk worms and some mulberry leaves in their own kitchens. Since about 1630, Prof. M. B. Hoffman says, the idea has tempted Americans. He says unsuccessful efforts to establish a domestic silk industry continued about 200 years, and the "fortunes of many thrifty men were wrecked in bankruptcy."

This discouraging news, buttressed by scientific studies, follows a triumphant announcement last week from William Vandrasek, a 64-year-old convalescent Chicago, Ill., tailor. He said raising silk worms is easy and exhibited a ball of silk in his hospital room as proof.

Police Have Burden

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 18 (AP)—The greatest share of civilian defense falls on local police forces, Lieut. Col. John T. Bissell, first assistant chief of U. S. Army Intelligence, told the 48th annual International Police Conference today. The War Department officer, in a prepared address, asserted "it is the cop on the beat who must watch out for incendiary sabotage and the psychological sabotage of the defeatist." Major emphasis of the four-day meeting, sponsored by the International Association of Chiefs of Police, will be on police problems in national defense.

DEFENDER OF A FAITH . . .

In the Middle Ages, they were called Crusaders—those defenders of the Right. Today, they're doughboys, and they fight with guns, planes and tanks instead of with swords, horses and armour. But they're only superficially different, for the significant fact still remains—Right still finds defenders! There still are people—now as hundreds of years ago—with the courage and vision that it takes to defend the Right. We at The Freeman are proud of the boys in camp and of the reasons they're there—just as you parents are. And we're not only proud, we're interested just as you are. That's one reason why you find such complete news and photo coverage in your paper of the activities of the boys in camp.

New York Canners See Fair Season

Farms of State Making Large Contributions

Albany, Aug. 18—New York farms are making large contributions to the national increase in canning vegetables this season, according to a federal-state report issued from the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. The state production of 14,100 tons of snap beans for manufacture is 37 per cent above 1940; 78,300 tons of sweet corn is up 113 per cent, or more than double; 162,000 tons of tomatoes is an increase of 31 per cent; canning peas, with harvest completed in early July, at 28,250 tons, were 11 per cent below 1940. For those crops not yet harvested, the final out-turn may be affected by weather conditions, for better or for worse.

If present expectations are realized, about one can of vegetables of these kinds out of each 14 in the United States will be packed in New York, ranging from one in nine for snap beans to one in 15 for green peas.

National Picture

In the national picture, 339,210 tons of green peas for manufacture this year compares with 307,120 last year, and 203,560, the 10-year average. Snap beans, 129,910 tons in 1941, 114,020 last season and 81,700 tons, average; sweet corn, 1,138,800 tons this season, 727,500 a year ago and 671,600, average. Tomatoes for processing with an increase of 14 per cent in acreage over last year now promise 2,387,000 tons, or five per cent more than the record crop of 2,274,700 tons produced in 1940 and compares with 1,579,000 tons, the 10-year average.

Cabbage Retarded

The cabbage crop has been retarded in growth, due to less favorable growing conditions than last season. The crop on Long Island is estimated at 13,900 tons, a decrease of 20 per cent from last year, though 51 per cent above the 10-year average.

In upstate New York areas, the domestic type cabbage crop, used both for sauerkraut and for fresh market, promises 94,400 tons, a reduction of 11 per cent from last season, and three per cent below the 10-year average. The center of production of this type is in Ontario county, though considerable amounts are grown in other nearby areas.

Cauliflower Starts

Cauliflower, coming into market rapidly, mainly from Delaware county and near-by Catskill areas, with some quantities from Erie county and other western New York points, is expected to produce 1,144,000 crates in these regions compared with 957,000 crates in 1940 and 445,000 crates, the 10-year average.

New Jersey with 650,000 crates compared with 625,000 last season, and Colorado and Washington with 1,510,000 this year and 1,404,000 last are other important regions.

The major eastern cauliflower area, on Long Island, will be an important source of supply late in the fall.

Chinese Girls Know Real Art of Tease, Actress Says

Hollywood, Aug. 18 (AP)—The Chinese have invented just about everything, including the strip-tease, says the Pekinese film star, Li Ling Ai.

Li Ling, a visitor here, said in an interview that just as the Chinese invented gunpowder, but used it for firecrackers instead of weapons, they invented the strip-tease—"but as an art instead of vulgar entertainment."

Since her arrival the Chinese actress has struck up a friendship with Valerie Parks, an accidental who disrobes nightly before audiences at a burlesque house. Li Ling said Miss Parks exhibited almost as much finesse as some of her sloop-eyed rivals.

"The essence of Chinese art is illusion," said Li Ling, who speaks English volubly but dresses in native garb.

To Rebuild Youths Rejected by ArmyNYA Will Establish Camps To Aid Defectives.

WASHINGTON.—The National Youth administration is experimenting with a plan to rehabilitate young men who have been rejected for selective military training because of minor physical defects. The plan will be operated on an entirely voluntary basis.

Men turned down by local draft board physicians or by the army because of minor physical defects will be admitted to special NYA camps where their physical strength will be built up by the proper diet, exercise, work and adequate medical care.

Officials think it will take two or three months to determine whether selective service "rejects" want to be rehabilitated by the NYA.

Local doctors and hospitals will give medical services under a co-operative agreement with the NYA, since the federal agency cannot provide medical services.

"This is definitely just an experiment," a spokesman for the NYA said, "but we know these people can be helped if we have the co-operation of local medical people."

Officials hope to extend the camps to all sections of the country.

The NYA plans to operate these camps just as it does the resident centers where men between the ages of 18 and 25 are taught trades and defense skills. The wages in a resident-center is $30 a month, from which $20 is deducted for subsistence, leaving $10 cash.

One-half of each day will be devoted to work and the second half of the day will be spent in classes directed by local school officials.

Sleepy Hamlet Receives Its Mail by Pack Burro

TUBAC, ARIZ.—Streamlined trains and transcontinental transports speed the mails from coast to coast in the space of a few hours, but in Tubac it is transported today as it was 50 years ago—by pack burro.

Ramon Quintero, a native of Tubac, for 20 years has carried the mails twice a day from the railroad station to the post office on his pack burro. Often, when the Santa Cruz river is up, Ramon and his burro may have to wait for hours to get across, and he's even held the mail-bag over his head and waded the river.

A relic of olden days, Tubac is surrounded by crumbling adobe walls and memories of the past. Ramon lives there with his children and grandchildren, setting the pace for the town, happy in his existence, or as he would put it, "asi es la vida" (This is the life).

Situated in southern Arizona, Tubac is a sleepy little town that has refused to keep pace with modern developments. The Southern Pacific line between Nogales and Tucson passes through, carrying mail to the west coast of Mexico.

Tamerlane Tomb Opened; Skeleton Well Preserved

MOSCOW.—Soviet scientists opened the tomb of Tamerlane, mighty Mongol conqueror who died in 1405, and found the skeleton well preserved in an ebony coffin covered by gold-threaded brocade, according to dispatches from Samarkand.

Tamerlane's body was embalmed with musk and rose water, wrapped in linen and buried in the ebony coffin inside a marble sarcophagus under a marble slab weighing 3½ tons.

Archeologists who studied Tamerlane's skeleton said his right leg was shorter than the left. The skull was damaged by the infiltration of water.

Tamerlane was the great-great-grandson of Ghengis Kahn, the Mongol warrior who conquered virtually all of Asia and much of Europe.

He died of fever on February 17, 1405, while preparing the climax of his career, a campaign to conquer China.

Playgrounds

Dramatics Program

The 1941 Interplayground Competitive Dramatic Program will take place at Block Park on Thursday and Friday, August 21 and 22 at 7:30 p. m. each evening.

Each park will put on a one-act play to last from 10 to 20 minutes. There has been a great deal of interest shown by the work of the talented youngsters as they work daily in preparation for this event which will count 10 points toward the playground trophy. Each play will be judged on acting, interpretation, smoothness and performance and dramatic quality of the play as a whole.

Last year Barmann Park took first place with Cornell second, and Hutton third. Barmann produced "The Emperor Jones" and displayed showmanship. Cornell which took second presented "Hill Top House" and Hutton displayed the operatic version of "Hansel and Gretel" with marionettes.

A few of this year's plays will be as follows: "An Evening at the Blakes," Cornell Park; "The Minute," Forsyth Park; "Cured," Block Park; "Broadcast Rehearsal," Hutton Park.

About 850 air pilots will be trained in Argentina during the next eighteen months, according to the Department of Commerce.

Telephone "TANKS" Dig in for Defense

Crews like this are digging the longest furrow ever plowed by man

One of the big defense activities being carried on by the Bell Telephone System is the building of the new 1600-mile Omaha-Sacramento underground cable lines at a cost of 20 million dollars. When completed, transcontinental circuits will be increased initially by about 50% and ultimately almost trebled.

The ponderous 20-ton cable-laying telephone "tanks" used on the job travel pretty much as the crow flies, and do their work in almost any kind of ground except soft swamps or solid rock. Driving steadily ahead, they dig the deep trench, lay two cables into it, fill in the earth, all in one continuous operation.

This is just one of the projects that the Bell System is carrying to meet national defense and other vital communication needs of the country. The program for this year alone involves an expenditure of about 400 million dollars in new construction—some 40 millions of it by the New York Telephone Company.

Roosevelt Signs Exemption Law For 28-Year Men

New Act Provides Men Not Inducted Be Deferred From Service Under Draft Bill

Washington, Aug. 18 (AP)—President Roosevelt signed into law today legislation to relieve men 28 years and older from active military duty under the selective service act.

The new law provides mandatory deferment for men not yet inducted and directs that those of the specified age who request it shall be released from service "as soon as practicable and when not in conflict with the interests of national defense."

The Chief Executive was expected to sign later in the day a bill extending the service of the rank and file of the army 18 months.

The mandatory deferment applies to men who on July 1, 1941, or on July 1 of any subsequent year have reached their 28th birthday without being inducted into the service.

The provision for release from service applies to men who were 28 or older when inducted, provided they had reached that age by July 1, 1941.

The law also amends the selective service act to require posting at the offices of local draft boards the names and classifications of men classified by each board.

Another new provision would exempt from service liability men honorably discharged from the army or coast guard for the convenience of the government within six months of the expiration of their three-year term of enlistment.

said, patrolling planes droned overhead, sometimes drowning out the singing and music from the marine bands of the battleship and United States destroyer.

United States sailors accompanied the President to the British battleship, and engaged in back-slapping with the British tars, to whom they brought presents of fruit and cigarettes.

The President also brought presents—one for every member of the British crew. Each bore a card which said "Best wishes, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Remains for Lunch

The United States sailors, like the President, remained for lunch on the battleship. Afterward they sent over hams, eggs and butter to replace food they had eaten.

The film of the meeting showed a black cat episode as the President left. The cat, a Prince of Wales mascot, ventured onto a gangplank from the battleship to the destroyer and sat there purring while the President and his party side-stepped by.

(The London radio heard in New York by N.B.C. said Churchill stopped at Iceland on his way back and inspected British and American troops.

(President Roosevelt's gift to each man on the Prince of Wales was a carton of cigarettes, some fruit and a half pound of cheese.)

The party of 10 distinguished men who went with Churchill included the newly created peer, Lord Cherwell, inventor of the balloon barrage.

for horses. Showing of cattle is expected to be ahead of last year, poultry exhibits will be larger and the showing of fruit will be better than had been anticipated.

Following the judging of cattle and horses, in the show ring on the lower field at the Park, which probably will take up the better part of the day, the bicycle races for boys and girls will be put on, in the same ring.

Increased interest is reported in the numerous Home Bureau exhibit classes and the same is true of the 4-H exhibits.

At the 4-H office it was stated that there will be over 200 individual entries by 4-H boys and girls. Because of the extent of exhibits and demonstrations (there are 15 of the latter) it is hoped to begin judging in the 4-H departments at 9:30 a. m.

The 4-H demonstrations will start at 10 a. m. and probably occupy the time until noon. In the afternoon, at 2:30, the 4-H style revue will take place.

The Granges of the county will have their usual exhibits of decorated booths containing arrangements of products of the farm and home. There will be 13 of these booths this year, representing as many individual Granges.

It is stated that more interest is being shown by business men and that commercial exhibits this year will exceed in number those of last year, when there were about two dozen, including farm machinery, poultry feed and supplies, and other exhibits and displays of a commercial nature.

Play Is Given

A play dealing with the new reservoir being built in the Lackawack valley was given by the lower senior group of Camp Woodland, at Samsonville this evening. A program of songs by the campers accompanied the plays and the evening ended on a gay note with square dancing in which campers and townsfolk took part. George Van Kleef played for the dancing. The play centered around a group of people forced to leave their homes to make way for New York's new water system. A group of the dispossessed farmers meet in a tavern in the valley for a farewell dance, and a series of flashbacks reveal their reactions to being dispossessed from their old homes.

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Week's wash: Jack Dempsey opens a three-months' tour with the Cole Brothers circus today at Bluefield, W. Va. . . . He's only scheduled to put on sparring exhibitions and suchlike, but since Jim Braddock boxed with a kangaroo up in Canada a while ago, we'd suggest they line up one of Clyde Beatty's tigers for old Johnno. . . . Billy Dear, whose golf is a lot tougher than his name, won't play in the amateur at Omaha next week. He wants to be on hand when a little Derdy arrives about that time. . . . Col. Matt Winn, who made the Kentucky Derby what it is, will be guest of honor at Saratoga tonight when the folks who helped him run racing at Juarez, Mexico, back in the old days stage a get-together. . . . Howard Johnston, who was N.C.A.A. rasslin' champ in 1935, got his doctor's degree in dairy husbandry from Penn State the other day. . . . And no cracks about his throwing the bull.

Ball Fans of Gay Ninety Variety

The grandstand was gay-ninety with a few streamlined ideas at Woodstock yesterday afternoon where the Nine Old Men representing the Woodstock Country Club took over Charlie's Ants by a fancy score. The game was played before a crowd which included the group of illustrators and others in the commercial art and advertising field brought to Woodstock for a week-end by Charles E. Cooper, who operates an advertising agency in New York. Shown above is Vic Till of the Country Club team getting ready for a swing and in the other scene some of the spectators in colorful costumes having a little fun of their own as the game is in progress. The Country Club boys were so far in front at the final inning that they finished the game sun bathing as their opponents whiffed the ambient for the finish.

Heidcamp Sets New Record In Winning Legion Trophy

New York Swimmer Wins Marathon Event at Williams on Sunday; Parry Triumphs

Joe Heidcamp, of the Williams Lake Athletic Club and Joe Lucas of the New York Athletic Club shared honors yesterday in the swimming races conducted at Williams Lake in the town of Rosendale. The former set a new record in winning the American Legion Trophy swim while the latter captured the Williams Lake Marathon for the second year in a row. Richard Dawe, vice-commander of the Kingston Post of the American Legion and Tom Murray, athletic officer, were on hand to make the trophy awards.

Other winners of the day were John McCarthy of Watertown, Lois Parry, two-time winner of the Kiwanis trophy, Betty Beaton of the Newark Women's Swimming Association, and Barbara Idema of the St. George Dragon Club.

In the American Legion race, a 100 yard freestyle swim for men of Ulster county, Joe Heidcamp had everything his own way from the start. Never was there any doubt as to whom the winner would be. The real battle was for the second position which was finally captured by Don Anderson, a young lad who is coming along fast in competitive swimming. Don finished about a foot ahead of Remberta Junquera. The winner's time was 1 minute and 1 second, just 1/3 seconds ahead of the record for that race which was formerly held by Walter Himmelberg, winner for the past three years. Himmelberg did not defend his title yesterday as he is now in the service of Uncle Sam.

The gruelling Williams Lake Marathon proved a very interesting race for the enthusiasts that lined the shores of the lake. Joe Lucas, last year's winner and favorite to repeat, grabbed the lead early in the race but found it hard to shake off John McCarthy, a dark horse from Watertown. During the first half of the two-mile race the lead changed hands between these two swimmers several times with Woodrow Prokosh and Francis Powers battling out for third place. It wasn't until the last 1/4 mile that last year's winner was able to widen a thirty-foot gap between himself and the Watertown lad to finish first in the time of 50 minutes 10.6 seconds. McCarthy finished 14 seconds behind and is credited with the Adirondack District Championship because Lucas does not hail from this district. Powers of the New York A. C. was third and Prokosh of the St. George Dragon Club finished fourth.

Honors in the Women's events were evenly divided. Lois Parry of the Williams Lake Club released one of her characteristic sprints in the two hundred yard freestyle event to nip Betty Beaton of the Newark Women's Swimming Association at the finish. Barbara Idema was third. The winner's time was 2 minutes and 44 seconds. Miss Beaton turned the tables on Lois in the 150 yard medley race to capture this event in 2 minutes and nine seconds with Lois second and Miss Idema third. Barbara Idema had her chance in the 50 yard backstroke when she conquered Jane Grogan, a team mate from the St. George Dragon Club, with Miss Beaton coming in third. The time for this event was 35.8 seconds.

The starter for the races was Walter Spence, former world record holder and member of two Olympic teams.

Dodgers Lead Cardinals As Western Clubs Invade Eastern Stronghold Today

Connie Likes His 1941 A's —But Wait Till Next Year!

Connie gives some personal attention to Herman Besse

By DICK CRESAP
AP Feature Service

Philadelphia—Rookies helped so much in the Athletics' drive toward the American League's top four that Connie Mack is lining up a new crop of youngsters for 1942—and they're coming from the A's farm clubs.

The 78-year-old pilot is enthusiastic about his current team—the first late season top flighter he's had in eight years—but he gets more excited about next year's prospects.

"We have a lot of good boys coming up, most of them from our own clubs or from teams we're working with," says Connie. "I only hope we find a couple good pitchers in the lot."

This might be called the first season in which the Athletics have gone seriously into the farm business.

"Father never believed in farm clubs before," explains Earle Mack, Connie's son and heir-apparent to the Athletics. "Now he's convinced you have to have them to get ball players. You can't find them anywhere else."

To that end, the house of Mack took over Newport News in the Virginia league and Federalburg in the Eastern shore league last year. The A's already had Wilmington of the Interstate circuit and working agreements with Toronto of the International and Washington of the Eastern.

"And that's just the beginning," says Connie. "If things keep breaking right for us, we're going to expand that system."

Who are some of these minor leaguers the A's hope to bring up next year?

"Well," reflects Mr. Mack, "we have two pitchers up at Toronto. Herman Besse and Porter Vaughn, who are going good this year. Both of them have been up before but needed a little more experience. There's another pitcher at Wilmington who's shown a lot of stuff. His name's Freddie Caligiuri and he's young and fast, just what we need. Jack Wallace, a shortstop, and a couple outfielders who can hit, Felix Mackiewicz and Elmer Valo, are down there, too. We have first call on two Williamsport boys, Northey and Richmond. Northey's an outfielder and Richmond plays the infield. There'll be others from Newport News and Federalburg.

"I think we'll have a lot to work with next year."

The rest of the league thinks the Athletics are doing pretty well this year. And if they had better pitching...

"Pitchers, of course, are what we need," says Connie. "We have a good hitting and fielding club. And you have to give plenty of credit to our youngsters like Pete Suder, Al Brancato, Sam Chapman, Dick Siebert, Benny McCoy and the rest of them. They've helped a lot."

Mack is particularly high on Suder. The rookie third baseman is all Connie predicted he'd be at the start of the season when he called him "another Lajoie."

"Our pitching is getting better as it goes along," says Connie. "Phil Marchildon, Tom Ferrick and Lester McCrabb are settling down now and I expect a lot from them next year. You have to take time with these youngsters."

Mr. Mack is optimistic then about 1942?

"Anything can happen," says Connie, "but I'm still hoping for another championship—and who knows? Next year might be it. I haven't given up yet."

The Cards, meanwhile sailed into Pittsburgh in the first game as though they owned the Bucs. Sparked by a four-run first-inning rally, they coasted to a 7-1 decision behind Mort Cooper's seventh-inning throw. In the nightcap, the Pirates piled up an 8-2 edge largely through a six-run second-inning party. Long Lon Warneke was belted out of the box for the third straight time.

The Phillies drew 6,587 to Shibe Park—their biggest crowd since June 6—to watch the local boys larrup Bill Terry's Humpty-Dumpty Giants twice, 6-2 and 18-2.

Root Wins 199
The Cincinnati Reds ran their winning streak to six games in the opener of their twin bill with the Cubs by clicking for a 6-3 victory behind Bucky Walters' steady tossing. But in the nightcap old Charley Root finally won the 199th game of his career by taking a 4-2 decision.

Cleveland's collapsible Indians lost two games to the charging Chicago White Sox and sank into a third-place deadlock with Boston's Red Sox. Bobby Feller dropped his fourth straight decision as he was outpitched by old Ted Lyons in the opener for an 8-2 setback. His tenth of the year, Moose Solters scratched a hit with the bags loaded in the tenth inning of the nightcap for a 4-3 which boosted the Sox into second place.

Buck Newsum and George Caster exchanged grade-A pitching performances in St. Louis. Buck hurled the Tigers to an 8-1 win over the Browns in the opener with a five-hit job. Caster came along then and tossed a three-hitter for a 6-1 victory in the afterpiece.

Sid Hudson stopped the Boston Red Sox with five hits to pitch the Washington Senators to a 6-2 victory.

Relics of the Republican era will be kept in the museum which will be established in the old fort of Gragoata facing the entrance of the bay at Niteroi, Brazil.

The Government of India has assumed control over the use of aluminum.

Wyatt Misses Perfect Game on Masi's Hit in Ninth; Bucs, St. Louis Split

(By The Associated Press)
The National League serves the dessert course this week.

Up to now, it's been a little of this and a little of that in Ford Frick's fiesta, and some of the boys got a ham sandwich and some came up with a juicy steak. The Brooklyn Dodgers found a choice tid-bit yesterday in the Boston Braves and are resting, at the moment, at the head of the table by a half game. The St. Louis Cardinals picked a tough order of beef in the Pittsburgh Pirates and sank out of first place with a doubleheader split.

But beginning today, the table's cleared again and the pennant pie is trotted out to be cut up. The Cardinals lead the eastern charge of the western invaders for the last times this year. And by a week from tomorrow, when the new gas-house gang and the rebuilt bums of the Gowanus wind up a four-game series, you'll probably have a fair-to-middlin' idea just who is going to have the pleasure of being offered up to the New York Yankees in the world series.

Yanks Lead by 17
This is an event which the National League winner probably won't look forward to with wholehearted hilarity. As usual, the Yanks are going to have their American League duties done up early and will have plenty of time to rest up and prepare a proper greeting for the lucky fellows from the senior circuit. The Bronx dandies mowed down Connie Mack's Athletics yesterday, 2-1, and 4-3, to push their league lead up to 17 games, with only 35 to go. It's all downhill now, especially since Cleveland has dropped out of second place.

But over in the other boys' back yard, they're doing it the hard way, as usual. The Cards move in for six games with the soft touches in Boston and Philadelphia as the Dodgers series next Sunday. The Brooklyn's, meanwhile, entertain the Pirates and the Chicago Cubs and it's "every man for himself."

Of the most recent activities, topped off by yesterday's proceedings, the whole business appears to rest on the right-hand elbowing equipment of Kirby Higbe and Whitey Wyatt so far as Brooklyn is concerned, while the Cards have to do their riding on the left wing of Ernie White and the right arm of Mort Cooper.

Brooklyn's front-line fingers performed yesterday. First Higbe served up a five-hitter to scalp the Braves, 5-1. Then Wyatt went out there and for 8 1/3 innings he had the first perfect game in nearly 20 years. But, with one gone in the ninth, Phil Masi, a fearful batsman with an average currently soaring in the .230's, poked a pitch over second base for a single. Wyatt wound up with another one-hitter for a 3-0 whitewash job.

The Cards, meanwhile sailed into Pittsburgh in the first game as though they owned the Bucs. Sparked by a four-run first-inning rally, they coasted to a 7-1 decision behind Mort Cooper's seventh-inning throw. In the nightcap, the Pirates piled up an 8-2 edge largely through a six-run second-inning party. Long Lon Warneke was belted out of the box for the third straight time.

The Phillies drew 6,587 to Shibe Park—their biggest crowd since June 6—to watch the local boys larrup Bill Terry's Humpty-Dumpty Giants twice, 6-2 and 18-2.

Root Wins 199
The Cincinnati Reds ran their winning streak to six games in the opener of their twin bill with the Cubs by clicking for a 6-3 victory behind Bucky Walters' steady tossing. But in the nightcap old Charley Root finally won the 199th game of his career by taking a 4-2 decision.

Cleveland's collapsible Indians lost two games to the charging Chicago White Sox and sank into a third-place deadlock with Boston's Red Sox. Bobby Feller dropped his fourth straight decision as he was outpitched by old Ted Lyons in the opener for an 8-2 setback. His tenth of the year, Moose Solters scratched a hit with the bags loaded in the tenth inning of the nightcap for a 4-3 which boosted the Sox into second place.

Buck Newsum and George Caster exchanged grade-A pitching performances in St. Louis. Buck hurled the Tigers to an 8-1 win over the Browns in the opener with a five-hit job. Caster came along then and tossed a three-hitter for a 6-1 victory in the afterpiece.

Sid Hudson stopped the Boston Red Sox with five hits to pitch the Washington Senators to a 6-2 victory.

Relics of the Republican era will be kept in the museum which will be established in the old fort of Gragoata facing the entrance of the bay at Niteroi, Brazil.

The Government of India has assumed control over the use of aluminum.

Letter May Decide Fate of Your Romance or Job

How quickly you can kill a summer romance with a boring letter! And yet good letters are as easy to write as bad ones.

Easier! For it's hard, dull work to grind out "Dear Bill, How are you? I am writing to say—" But it's a cinch to scrawl your gay, natural greeting, "Hi, Bill!"

And why waste words "writing to say"? Just SAY! At once Bill recognizes the real, the attractive you he knows. He loves your characteristic description of the jolopy that "wants to die but nobody'll let it," the "glorious purple sunset at Clear Lake."

It's the same in business letters. You don't dem and haw, "In reply to your letter—" You write directly: "The salary you mentioned will be satisfactory."

That positive note is important in closing, too. Not "Respectfully," the delay, we are—"but "We will see that such a delay does not occur again. Sincerely yours."

Our 32-page booklet tells how to make your letters vivid and correct. Has samples of 24 letters—formal, friendly, business. Helps improve your grammar, suggests topics to write about.

Send 10 cents in coin for your copy of "Good Letter - Writing Made Easy" to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth Ave., New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Visiting Cards For The Skork

A mother soon-to-be says that her husband intends to telephone and telegraph their few nearest relatives and friends as soon as the baby arrives. However, they have a great many other friends and relatives to whom they would like to send the news, but they can not afford so many telegrams or long-distance calls. My reader adds, "The little engraved card, tied with white ribbon to our own visiting card sounds very expensive. Couldn't we possibly write the information across our own card? If you say yes, what should the wording be?"

In answer to this, you could perfectly well write, "Our baby Mary, (or Our Baby John) arrived August 17"—at least, I see no reason why not! But I think that lacking the little card, and its white bow, you would have to prefix the name with "Our baby" otherwise how would they know who Mary (or John) might be?

Saying Good-bye At A Tea

Dear Mrs. Post: When one is invited to a formal tea in honor of a distinguished person, and having had a cup of tea, is ready to leave, it is necessary, or even correct to go down the receiving line a second time and say good-bye? It often happens that it is not possible to go out through the same door?

Answer: If you have to pass the hostess and the guest of honor, and they are not talking with anyone—not even with each other—you would naturally stop and say your thank you, and you are leaving too soon to be polite, you would leave without attracting attention.

How To Eat Figs

Dear Mrs. Post: You have not answered a letter I wrote you some time ago, asking, "What is the proper way to eat fresh, whole figs, served at the table?"

Answer: If you eat them dry, you hold them in your fingers; if you eat them with cream in a saucer, you hold the fruit with your fork, cut it with your spoon, and convey it to your mouth with the spoon. (How else could you eat them?) If you have no fork you'll have to cut carefully to keep it from cheating about and possibly slipping out of the saucer.

Dessert And Coffee At The Same Time

Dear Mrs. Post: When it is customary to serve coffee with dessert at a table, is one supposed to wait to begin eating dessert until coffee is served?

Answer: Correctly, the dessert is served first, and the coffee is offered when the dessert has been eaten. If the coffee is put on almost immediately one pours it, and leaves it—finishes one's dessert and then drinks it.

Important Point Is Whether Red Chief Stabilizes Soldiers

what happens, Budyenny will be fulfilling his mission by keeping Hitler from making a quick conquest and by forcing the Fuehrer to fight on into the winter. It's a long way round to the Caucasus on the border of Iran (Persia) toward which the Nazi chieftain is driving his troops.

Despite this, the Anglo-Russian alliance is taking no chances on Herr Hitler reaching his goal and thrusting down into Persia to cut the Russian lifeline to the Persian Gulf and establish a grave menace to the allies in the middle east. Word from London is that the British and Reds are about to take the decisive step of delivering Persia an ultimatum to clean some 5,000 Germans out of the country, and thus prevent their cooperation with the advancing Nazi forces.

As was indicated in this column last week in forecasting such a move, not only is it vital to the allies to keep Hitler from getting an army into Persia, but this country must provide an important route for supplies, both American and British, for the Russians. It also would be the highway for a British expeditionary force into Russia should such aid become necessary.

Maintenance of an open gateway on the Russo-Persian border has become doubly important in view of the new aid which is going to Russia as a result of the Roosevelt-Churchill conference.

Depression-Born Suburb Suffers As Times Improve

AP Feature Service

Pensacola, Fla. — Hooverville, depression-born suburb of Pensacola, is on its way toward becoming a ghost town — because times are good again.

The settlement, with its shacks of scrap tin, lumber and tar paper, was started back in 1933 when several families moved onto vacant land owned by a large lumber company, and grew to a population of about 200.

Unable to pay even modest rent, they improvised living quarters from whatever materials they could find.

The lumber company, kindly disposed toward its non-paying tenants, did not wish to eject them and yet was concerned lest they establish "squatter's rights" by seven years' continuous possession. It worked out a plan under which each family leased its plot for a dollar a month and retained possession of any buildings erected, with the right to remove them.

Now, however, many of the families are moving out as their breadwinners find employment and they are able to afford better places to live. Parts of the settlement soon may be taken over for business purposes.

VACATIONS AIN'T WHAT They Used To Be

Even vacations are speeding up — the tempo of life's growing faster. Two years ago, even last year, it didn't really make so much difference if you missed reading the newspaper for a couple of weeks. But now, when there are things of vast importance to us as individuals happening every day, we want to read all the news, all the time. So it's a good idea to have your copy of the Kingston Daily Freeman follow you wherever you go on your vacation. Call the Circulation Department — 2200.
